ORE CHARGES AGAINST DEBS

a Indictments Were Returned Agains: Railroad Officials, Bacause No Informa tion Was Produced Against Them Notes from Affected Points.

CHICAGO, July 20 -The federal grand iry returned tweny three indictments is udge Seaman's court yesterday after oon and were discharged. In the twenty aree indictments were included the ames of about seventy-five who ar barged with violating the federal statute. uring the railroad troubles of the last hree weeks.

District Attorney Milchrist refused to ive the names of any of the indicted per ons, beyond admitting that there were everal new indictments against Debs. loward, Keliher and Rogers, the chie! fficers of the railway union. Included in ome of the indictments, also, are other fficers of the organization who have not peen so prominent as the four now in the county jail. The others who go to make up the seventy-five are strikers against whom are charged specific acts of inter ference with trains or other property of the companies.

Debs and the other officers are in nearly all of the twenty-three indictments. Whenever the grand jury concluded to present a batch of rioters who committed specific acts, such as the derailing of trains, Debs and his companions were named with them as conspirators. In addition to that there is an indictmen against Debs, Rogers, Keliber and How ard, charging them with conspiracy to deprive a citizen of the United States of one of his constitutional rights, that is the right to ship goods from one state to another. Mr. Milebrist said the question as to whether Debs and the other officers will be compelled to give bail on each separate indictment has not been settled, but will be after the beach warrants are issued and served today.

No indictments were returned against railrond officials, because no information was given against them. Mayor Hopkins has become displeased over the reiterated reports that he has at different times requested the removal of the federal troops from Chicago. Last night he gave out for publication copies of telegrams between the secretary of war and himself and copies of notes exchanged between General Miles and himself. Both General Miles and Secretary Lamont asked him if he felt able to keep the peace in Chicago without the assistance of federal troops, and upon his statement that he felt able to do so the order withdrawing the regulars was issued. This correspondence, Mayor Hopkins declares, covers rything on the subject in which he had any part. Reports from Oakland are to the effect that the disputch received from Debs did not state that the strike had been declared off, but merely informed the strikers that the strike in California could be ended by a majority vote of the men. The Southern Pacific dispatched a train for Portland, the first that has been sent out on that line since the strike began. Military guards still go upon all import ant trains and the trouble is by no means

The engines in the Cincinnati, Hamil ton and Dayton yards at Cincinnati were stoned, as well as those in the Big Four yards. When the night crews were re lieved arrangements were made for a force of specials and detectives to protect the men hereafter. Both of these roads have new men in their yards.

The strike in Montana is practically broken as far as the Northern Pacific is concerned. The through and branch lines, except the short line from Bozeman to Butte, are now in regular operation Passenger trains run under military guard. Nearly all clases of employes have returned to work, or are ready to do so, except firemen. Butte is about the only place in the state where the A. R. U. men are united.

The East St. Louis strikers executive board have declared the American Railway union strike off. A ballot was taken and the proposition was carried by a two

At Galveston, Tex, a committee of the A. R. U., called on General Manager Yoacum and advised him that the Galveston branch had held a meeting and declared the strike off, and also dissolved their organization, and would be glad to have any of the men reinstated whose places have not been filled. Mr. Yoacum said their applications would be duly considered by the company.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Oream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious developement of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

tinue and Scores Mr. Croker.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 20.—Senator C. T. Saxton emphatically denies the statement in a New York paper that the Lexow investigation has been abandoned. He says it is but fairly started. The summer resess is only to give Mr. Goff needed rest. Regarding Mr. Croker, Senator Sexton said: "If Mr. Croker had not been worked up to a very high pitch by the presence of the Lexow committee and by the many frauds and steals they were unearthing daily he would not have resigned from the chief's office in Tammany Hall, neither would be have been so suddenly shattered in health. The committee will examine Mr. Croker and many others whom it is believed will aid the investigating body in finding out all they desire to know.

"There is no doubt but that Police Commissioner John McClave resigned because it was getting to warm for him. Charges of corruption were so strongly proved by internal evidence that he had no desire to remain longer on the board, and that, too, without putting too much reliance on the story of his son-in-law. McClave got out because he did not dare to face further exposure.'

CRUSHED IN A MINE

Three Miners Killed and Two Badly Injured at Williamstown, Pa. WILLIAMSTOWN, Pa., July 20.—Three miners were killed and two badly injured in an accident which happened yesterday afternoon at the Williamstown colliery. The dead are: John Llewellyn, aged 50: Joseph Raudenbush, aged 38, and Martin Tate, aged 40. The injured are William Clark and a miner whose name has not yet been ascertained. Both the wounded men will recover.

The accident bappened as the men were coming to the surface after having completed their day's work. Just how it occurred is not quite clear, but it is supposed that the hoisting apparatus became disarranged and in some manner forced the car in which the men were ascending from the track and pressed it tightly against the top of the slope. The unfortunate occupants were drapged along and squeezed between the car and the roof until the machinery was stopped. All of the dead men were married and leave large families.

are not expected to live. Fatal Fire in Minneapolis.

The result was almost instant death.

Alleged Jury Bribery.

CHICAGO, July 20. - The investigation of the jury bribery case in Judge Baker's court yesterday developed a sensation when the wife of Millionaire Warren Springer was pointed out as the woman who had attempted to bribe Juror Joseph Marmon through his wife. Mrs. Marmon positively identified the millionaire's wife as the woman who called on her and offered a bribe for a favorable verdict in the condemnation suit in which Warren Springer was interested.

THE RUSSIAN MISSION.

Congressman Breckinridge Named by the President.

MR. WHITE OBLIGED TO RESIGN.

The Retiring Diplomat Forced to Surrender His Office on Account of Ill Health-Sketch of the New Represent ative to the Court of the Czar.

Washington, July 20.—Representative Clifton R. Breckinridge, who has represented the Second district of Arkansas for twelve years, was nominated yesterday to be minister to Russia to succeed Andrew D. White. When the extra session of

Mr. Breckinridge was made war upon in his district, and his opponents succeeded in de-C. R. BRECKINBIDGE feating him for renomination. The president desired to suitably recognize his services, and tendered him the Russian mission. The Hon. Clifton R. Breckinridge, who is to succeed Andrew D. White as minister to Russia, was born at Lexington, Ky., on Nov. 22, 1846, and is now in his 43th year. He is described personally as a living portrait of his distinguished father He was not yet 15 years old when the was of secession broke out, but he enlisted as a private in the Confederate army, and served until the end of the struggle. In 1870 he settled at Pine Bluff, Ark., as a cotton planter and commission merchant, to which callings he devoted his entire attention for a dozen years. In 1982 he was elected to congress from the Second district of the state, and still continues to represent that constituency, although his service was interrupted in the fall of 1890 by his seat being declared vacant. This result was reached after out of the most memorable contests in the po litical history of the country.

At the election in November, 1988, Mr. Breckinridge was credited with receiving 17,857 votes, and his Republican opponent, John M. Clayton, with 17,011. Mr. Clayton contested Breckinridge's right to the seat on the ground of fraud, but before the contest was completed he was brut ally murdered. The direct responsibility of the crime has not yet been definitely fixed, and probably never will be. Other murders followed in the wake of this one, and in no case has justice overtaken the

The judges and others charged with the frauds in the election were acquitted by the state courts, and Mr. Breckinridge and his counsel insisted that this finding should bind the bouse and be accepted by congress as proof that fraud did not exist. The majority of the committee on elections, however, took a different view of the subject, and on Sept. 5, 1890, Mr. Breckinridge was unseated. In November of the same year. however, Breckinridge was re-elected. At the beginning of the second session of the fifty-first congress. Mr. Breckinridge resumed his service in the house, after losing his salary for sixty days only This year he has not been so successful, the Democratic nomination having been secured by Judge John S. Little, who defeated Mr. Breckinridge at the primaries by a decided vote.

It is believed that the Russian mission will be advanced to an embassy at no distant day, thus making Mr Breckinridge an ambassador.

Andrew D. White, the retiring minister, has had his resignation on file in the state department for many months, like the other ministers who held over from the last administration. He is a diplomatist of much ability besides having an enviable reputation as a literateur. resigned the presidency of Cornell university to accept the appointment of minister to Germany April 2, 1879. In the early days of Garfield's ministry he was obliged to surrender this office on account of ill health. He was appointed minister to Russia by President Harrison July 22. 1892, and has been very fortunate and successful in his relations with the Russian government.

ITALIANS IN AFRICA. Bloody Battle Fought with Natives :

Kassala.

Massawan, Egypt, July 20.—A flerce battle has taken place between a force of native and Italian soldiers, commanded by the governor general and a large force of dervishes which sought refuge at Kass ala. The Italian troops were victorious and Kassala was captured. One Italian officer was killed, and many native sol diers were killed or wounded. These were the only casualties on the Italian side.

A large body of dervishes recently raided Carcabat, an Italian village. The dervishes killed many of the inhabitants and captured and sent into the interior as slaves all those who were not massacred. After leaving Carcabat the dervishe marched toward Agordat with the intention of capturing that place. News of the raid reached the governor general, whe was at Keren, on the Barca river, an Italian post situated somewhat less than half way between this place and Kassala. Th governor general had at his disposal a force of 2,400 troops, natives and Italians. With this force the governor general started in pursuit of the dervishes in the vicinity of Kassala. He was there in formed by some natives that the dervishe had been notified of the pursuit of the Italian column, and that they had sought refuge in Kassala.

The governor general encamped for a while on the Mareb river, and made prep arations to carry Kassala by assault. On the morning of July 17, the Italian troops being thoroughly rested, an advance was made upon Kassala. The dervishes defended themselves with desperate bravery, but the town was finally carried by assault, after a fierce battle had beer fought. The less of the dervishes was very heavy, and the Italians captured many flags and a large number of cannon

THE HOUSE INSISTS.

The Tariff Bill Goes Back to the Conference Committee.

PRESIDENT OLEVELAND OBJECTS.

The President, in a Letter to the House, Urges the Party to Hold Out for Free Coal and Iron Ore, and Advises a Tax on Sugar.

WASHINGTON, July 20.-The Democrats of the house of representatives yesterday, without a division of sentiment, so far as surface indications were concerned, and amid a scene of unparalleled enthusiasm, sent the tariff bill back to conference with instructions to the conferees to stand firm against the amendments which the senate had placed upon the bill. A special order was brought in from the committee on rules, which limited debate on the motion to disagree to two hours, and was so worded as to prevent specific instructions on sugar or any other schedule.

In the preliminary debate over the adoption of this resolution Representative Johnson, the radical free trader from Ohio, protested against a course of procedure that would give the house no opportunity to give specific instructions on

The debate which occurred on the adoption of the motion instructing the house to insist on its disagreement was practically confined to Chairman Wilson on the one hand, and ex-Speaker Reed on the other, although short speeches were made by General Wheeler, of Alabama, and ex-Speaker Grow, of Ponnsylvania, before the vote was taken. The utterances of Mr. Wilson, who was suffering intense paro, and whose head was bound with a silk handkerchief that extended to his chin, so that he was practically blindfolded, created the most intense enthusiasm among his Democratio colleages. Every sentiment he uttered in opposition to the concessions which the senate sought to force was applauded to the echo, and the climax was reached when he sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter from President Cleveland, declaring that the future welfare of the Democratic party depended upon the adherence to the Democratic principles upon which the house bill was framed. He urged the party to hold out for free coal and iron ore, and advising a tax on sugar, which he characterized as "a delicate sub-

Mr. Reed's reply also met with the most uproarious applause from his political colleagues.

The motion to disagree was adopted without division, and the speaker reappointed the old conferees.

After the tariff bill had been sent back to conference the conference reports on the naval, military and diplomatic appropriation bills were agreed to, and the house began the consideration of a resolution for a constitutional amendment looking to the election of senators by the peofrom the effect of the shock. The father, ple. The consideration of this bill under crazed by the shock of the two deaths, cut a special order adopted continues today, and tomorrow a bill will be considered to re-establish railway mail clerks dismissed between March 15, 1889, and May 1, 1889. In anticipation of a lively tartif debatein the senate the galleries were well filled, but the occupants were disappointed. The only event of interest in connection with the tariff was the reception of a message from the house announcing that that body insisted on its disagreement, and asked for a further conference. Some time afterwards Mr. Voorbees asked to have this message laid before the senate. after which he announced that a full and free conference had been had; that the house conferees had not agreed to the senate amendments, and that the senate conferces had insisted upon them. The message from the house was then laid on the table, to be taken up for consideration today, when Mr. Hill will move to instruct the conferees to place iron and coal on the free list.

Consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was resumed at an early hour, and was finally passed. The bill as finally passed carries an appropriation in round numbers of $9,136,000, being about $2,630,000 more than was carried by the house bill, and an increase approximately of $1,511,000 over the bill of last year. The report of the conferees on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was agreed to.

WILSON TALKS. MR.

Y Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural funcies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did. to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leadparts, to pages to each, while a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world. I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish areast things, wently to know every detail of the lives of those who had better lines. great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume. ume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

A TRUE TEST OF BEAUTY

Only the Fairest and Freshest Faces Can for a Moment Stand It. Next time you go to a party, watch some of the women as they stand under the chandeliers. Notice how alight shining from above brings out unexpected lines on all but the youngest and freshest faces. It is a severe test of beauty.

Perhaps you will wonder at the number of thin lanky women. They all want to be plump. Why are they not? They get enough to eat surely. Oh, yes, but they don't digest their food, and there's no fire without consumption of fuel. A pre-digested food called Paskola is welcomed by these women. They find in it fleshforming properties.

They are told that it is nourishment, not medicine, and that its good effects are lasting. Such letters as this one from J. C. Kenyou, druggist, Owego, N. Y., tella the story:

"Two of our best ladies told me this week, one that she had gained five pounds, the other two pounds, entirely through the use of your foed, Paskola."

This is the testimony of Mrs. Chas. E. Lothian, 111 West Forty-fifth

"For the past five years I have suffered from gastric indigestion and have tried all so-called remedies for indigestion, besides courses of treatment from physicians all over the country, from which I only received self to the bedpost with a sheet. Sicktemporary relief. My spmptoms were heart burn, flushes of heat, dizziness, bloated feeling after eating, depression of spirits, severe and acute attacks of cramps and inflammation and chronic constipation.

"About two months ago, through an advertisement in the New York Heraid, I resolved to give Paskola a trial, although without any faith in it, owing to my past experience with so-called remedies for indegestion, After taking one small bottle of Paskola I felt better, very much better. I and now eat anything my appetite craves. All my friends say, 'how fat and well you look; what have you been doing?' My answer is always, 'Paskola.' I have recommended it to all my friends and even to strangers, as I feel it my duty to do so, owing to the great benefit I have derived from it. A friend of mine has taken only three small bottles and says she feels like a new woman. This may seem rather fulsome praise but I conscientiously feel that I cannot say too much in praise of Pas-

The craze for organizing boroughs under the New Jersey law reached its climax, the other day, when a petition was presented to Judge Van Valen for the formation of a borough near Hackensack with a population of forty souls, of whom only seven are voters. The Judge refused to ba a party to such a ridiculous proceeding, and when the lawyer insisted that the law was mandatory the Judge answered that the law did not provide for absurdities. As there are seventeen offices to be filled in every borough it will be seen that if the Judge had not refused to approve of the petition for this most diminuitive of boroughs, it would have been a veritable paradise for office hold-

The appointment of Hon. Clifton R. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, to be Minister to Russia, is in every way commendable, Mr. Breckinridge is a man of great ability, high character and loftly ideals of public duty, He failed of re-nomination because his constituents, who are free silverites, wished to punish him for his advocacy of the silver purchase repeal bill. His retention in the public service, in a more responsible and exalted position, is a fitting recognition of his courage and fidelity to principle. The appointment is to be commended for another reason. It means the revall of Andrew D. White, a Republican appointed in the closing hours of the Harrison administration, who, for some inscrutable reason has been permitted to hold a position that, early in March 1893, ought to have been given to a Democrat.

President Cleveland's letter of July 2d to Chairman Wilson, earnestly appealing to him to insist on party honesty, good faith and a sturdy adherence to Democratic principles in conferences on the tariff bill, which was made tublic, yesterday, ought to have the effect of strengthening the hands of all who desire tariff reform on the lines so often premised by the Democratic party in its platforms. The letter clearly indicates the points in which the Senate bill is in open violation of Democratic principies and Democratic pledges, and does not hesitate to say that an abandonment of Democratic principles means party perfily and party dishonor, and invites party defeat. Whether the letter will have any effeet on the so-called "conservative" Senators who are blocking the way to tariff reform may well be doubted. They see nothing beyond the special interests they have undertaken to champion. Party pledges, party principles, party honor, and possibilities of party success are beyond the narrow range of their political vision, which sees only local advantages to be gained by the retention of the outrageous duties of McKinley's robber tariff.

NO CAUSE FOR LAMENTATION. From the New York Post,

Ex-Speaker Reed can scarcely expect the public to take his grief seri ously at not being invited in by the-Democrati conferees on the tariff. No one is so responsible as he for the doctrine that it is a stupid and needless formality for the majority to concede anything to the minority except the right to protest and vote against the decision of the majority.

AN INCH OR 90 OF LAND.

A House Pared Down to Prevent It From Encroaching on a Lot.

The Elba apartment house, owned by H. and H. E. Law, is four stories in height and occupies 30 feet front on Van Ness avenue. After standing in its place two years it was discovered a short time ago that it was a fraction of an inch on the land of Thomas B. Evveyor go carefully over the ground, and he reported that the front line of the house, on Van Ness arenne, was threequarters of an inch on the Evans propcity, and the encroachment increased to five-capet - of an inch at the rear line, 50 feat back

Mr. Evans notified the Messrs. Law, and they sent for the man who built the house, and he went all over the ground with another surveyor. The Laws offered to pay $100 for the inch or the fraction of it. But Evans had sent his engineer to the top of the building, and he dropped a plumb line and declared that the fire wall extended 11% inches at the top over the line at the bottom. Evans added that to the three-quarters of an inch at the ground line and declared that, taken up and down and back, there was an encroachment of over 214 inches.

Then the Laws said that they would pay $100 an inch-fer all encroachment that could be demonstrated. The estimated value of lots thereabouts is said to be $300 a frozt foot, and $100 an inch the Laws held to be a very good tigure. But Evans and he would take $350 and nothing less. This i 🛊 Lawwould not give. Through the contract or, who had carried on all the negociations, they said, "Mr. Evans, if we are on your property, we will get off."

And the next day ladders were swung from the roof against the side of the house, and men began to chisel from three-quarters to an inch and a half off the brick wall. Chip by chip as the hammers fall Mr. Evans' land is 'cing slowly cleared, a perpendicular having from the brick wall is being scattered over the neighborhood, and the tenants living in the house have a realizing sense of what it might be to live in a boiler yard.—San Francisco Ex-

THE "WAITING WOMAN" AGAIN.

disiting Houses in the Vicinity of West Main Street and Monhagen Avenue.

The "waiting woman," whose queer conduct at houses in and near this city was described, a few days ago, turned up, yesterday afternoon. at the home of the Misses Butler, 195 West Main street, near Monhagen avenue, and asked to be allowed to sit down until a friend with whom she had come to town returned from calling on an unfortunate friend, who was under treatment at the State Hospital.

The woman was well dressed and seemed so intelligent and ladylike that she was allowed to enter the house. She sat there for several hours talking on many subjects and asking many questions concerning people in the neighborhood. The Misses Butler had not read of the waiting woman's " doings so they had no suspicions of their visitor, but when she said that she would have to walk up to the Asylum and see what detained her friend they were so tired of her that they heartily assured her that they thought it would be a good plan.

Where the woman went they do not know, but in the evening she again came to the house and said that she thought she'd stop and let them know that she had found her friend, who was waiting for her at the corner. The woman went toward the corner, but there was no one there and Miss Butler, who was watching her saw her turn up Monhagen avenue toward the Asylum. Miss Butler hurried to the corner to see where the woman went, but she had disappeared and inquiry at the houses on that part of the street showed that she had not stopped at any of them. Where she spent the night is a mystery.

The woman's conduct, yesterday, seems to have been utterly without object and does much to confirm the belief that she is insane.

A SUIT FOR TEN CENTS.

A Reputable Merchant Annoyed by a Suit for the Value of a Bozen Cracked

A reputable merchant of this city was s.ed, yesterday, in Justice's Court, for ten cents. The suit is the outgrowth of a transaction in cracked eggs. While the merchant was packing eggs for shipment to New York a colored man came into his store and asked him what he would take for the cracked eggs that he est. was laying to one side. "Ten cents The a dozen" was the answer, and although the merchant explained that they would not keep and might already be a little strong, the darky took a dezen of them. Several hours | Albany, the church's first pastor, afterwards he returned with half a who charged the people to sustain TRAVELING, take along a bottle Lake street, Warwick, Friday, he dozen of the eggs in a bag, and sayof our Pepsin Essence for your saw a big flame in the kitchen and ing that they were not satisfactory, demanded good eggs or the return tinguished it. William Dall lies in the hospital at Port Jervis, fatally wounded by two pistol balls fired by himself with suicidal intent.

Dall is a Scotchman, twenty-eight years old, and was employed as coachman for the McKenzie family at Glen Spey. He had been sick for some time, and Dr. Craig, of Jersey City, who was stopping with the McKenzies, had been treating him, and advised him to go to a New York hospital, where he could be cared for properly. Dall arranged to go on Wednesday, but just before time to start two shots were heard by the family, and the young man was found under an apple tree with one bullet in his head and another in his bowels, and a revolver at his side.

Dall was able to make an ante mortem statement to Coroner Harding, yesterday.

ORDINATION AND INSTALLATION-

Mr. J. W. Norrls Ordained to the Ministry and Installed Pastor of the North Street Congregational Church'

A council of Congregational ministers from the Hudson River Association was held at the North Street Congregational Church, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of examining Mr. J. W. Norris, who was a candidate for ordination as a Christian minister. The council organized with Rev. Wayland Spaulding, of Poughkeepsle, as Moderator and Rev. Lyman E. Davis, of Albany, as

The examination was a thorough and very satisfactory one and the Council voted to proceed with the ordination and the installation of Mr. Norris as pastor of the North Street

The ceremonies took place at the church at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the presence of a large congregation, and began with the singing of an anthem by the choir.

The minutes of the Council were read by Rev. Lyman E. Davis, who also offered an invocation, and read a brief selection from the Scrip-

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. W. A. Robinson, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who took for his text a portion of the 11th verse of the fourth chapter of I Peter: "If any man minister let him do it as of the ability that God giveth; that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ."

After the introduction in which he declared that all Christian life is inspired life, he announced as his theme, "The inspirations of the Gospel ministry," making a discrimination between inducements or incitements to good service, and the higher inspirations.

He said there is great need of higher inspirations for the minister. This need is emphasized by the difficulties and hindrances of his work; its changing and contrasting conditions and by the importance of the issues involved. It is a work of time but for eternity. To meet this need he presented three classes of inspirations; those of faith, of love and of hope.

Expanding his thoughts under each of these points he exhorted to the right use of these higher inspirations and set forth the blessings to which this leads.

The sermon was a very able one and was listoned to with deep inter-

The ordaining and installing prayer was then made by Rev. James B. King, of Newburgh.

The address to the people was delivered by Rev. Lyman E. Davis, of their pastor; to be a live church, which always makes a live minister. The address to the pastor was by

The right hand of fellowship was given by Rev. Wayland Spaulding, of Poughkeepsle. He spoke of the personnel of the members of the Hudson River Association, in a humorous way. He referred to Dr. Robinson as the Nestor of Congregationalism, and one abundantly able to hold his own with the pastor of the was intended for the benefit of Rev. Dr. Beattie, of the Second Presbyterian Church, who was present. Mr. Spaulding closed with a hearty welcome to the ranks of the association. The benediction was pronounced by the new pastor. Rev. Mr. Norris is about 32 years old and is a native of Albany, Vermont, about 20 miles from the spot where Dr. Robinson was born, and the latter says the first marriage he ever performed was at the house of an aunt of Mr. Norris, although this fact was unknown to him until yesterday. Mr. Norris was a carpenter by trade, but having decided to study for the ministry he worked his way through college, graduating from the University of Vermont in 1891, and from the Yale Divinity School last spring, just before coming to Middletown. He is a man of strong qualities, fine physical development and vigorous mind. He is a forcible speaker, has a good voice, and his congregation is well pleased with him.

An Ungrateful Young Thief,

A young man from Brooklyn, who had been befriended by Mrs. Anna Herrick, of Warwick, and who boarded at ber house, stole $100 which Mrs. Herrick had in the house and left town. The young man came to Warwick under a cloud, having been charged with theft in Brooklyn, but Mrs. Herrick for the sake of his parents, who were old friends, took the stranger in and accepted his explanation that he was guiltless and was anxious to get away from evil associations.

The latter were thrown out of the window and Mr. Kinney was knocked down several times, and Mr. Rockwell hearing the rumpus, came in, but was knocked down and kicked into the hall. The crooks secured the money, and although a crowd had gathered they were not molested but were allowed to take the first train for New York.

MASONIC BUILDING,

The Secret Of a Fair Face 14 a Beautiful Skin.

A Man Constructed and Fitted Up a Vessel on a Sandy Waste Because He Wants to De Ready When the Water Rises, as He Pirmly Believes It Will.

"One of the queerest and most surprising sights I over saw in all my wanderings over the wilds of this country," said E. C. Traver, a well known prospector and civil engineer, a few days ago, "was a newly constructed brig lying on the floor of Death valley. And it is there yet, so that anybody can see it.

ELER IN DOATH VALLEY.

"When I first saw it, I was almost paralyzed. I could not believe my eyes and thought I must have passed through some mental lapse and was not in Death valley at all. But, after gazing at the strange object a few minutes and then looking around me and seeing the wastes of burning sands and feeling the hot breath of the desert wind, I knew that everything about me was most realistically real

"It was by the merest chance that I ran across the vessel," said Mr. Traver, because had I been a few feet farther south I would never have seen it. You see, I had been working on the eastern side of the valley for several weeks without success and concluded to go to Mount Darwin, where I would at least be sure of expenses. I was crossing the valley at the northern end, which is quite narrow, but about the lowest spot on the earth's surface. I am not exactly certain, but I think that where the vessel is it is about 200 feet below sea level.

"After the first surprise had worn off I began to figure out how the craft came there. That the vessel was a relic of a past age never entered my head for a moment, because it was constructed on perfectly modern lines and the wood had a yellow appearance, indicating that it had not been cut very long. I am something of a sailor myself, and the first glance told me that it was the work of some modern shipbuilder, but that only made the mystery greater.

"Going close, I made a careful examination of my strange find. It proved to be a perfect brig of about 400 tons, that had never been in water. Everything about it was of the best style of workmanship and showed plainly that the builder had put forth his best efforts. The keel was laid flat on the sand and the starboard side placed up against a small reef of rocks. The port side was supported in the usual manner.

Climbing onto the deck by a small rope ladder, I found everything shipshape. The decks were as clean and white as a man-of-war's, and every rope was in place. Entering the cabin, I found everything neat and clean and several bunks with bedding ready to sleep in. Such a thing, however, would have been impossible, as the heat was simply unbearable, and I had to go to the door, gasping for breath, before I had completed my investigation. The more I looked the more mystified I became. It was plain the brig had been built where she was, but by whom and for what?

"I spent the whole afternoon climbing over the vessel. I went into the rigging and looked over the surrounding country, but could see no sign of - a-human being. When night came on, I concluded to camp near by, but had no sooner got fixed comfortably when a voice from somewhere called 'Good evening!' You may be sure I jumped, as my nerves were feeling a little weak through my strange afternoon's experience.

"There was no need to be alarmed, though, for a good natured looking man, with gray hair and beard, was smiling at me. Of course I at once concluded that he knew something about the brig. I was right, and in a few moments he explained the whole thing to me and also showed to what ends a foolish idea will drive a near I was right, and in a few moments he will drive a man.

"He said that his name was Frederick Evans, that he was a ship builder by trade and one of the California pioneers of '49. He had never made a big strike, but had always kept prospecting, and when the water rose in Salton lake a few years ago he was at work in the mountains around Death valley. It was then that he got it into his head that the water would eventually reach that locality, and he was determined to have the first vessel to float in the new sea.

"Evans was not a poor man, but had money enough to hire a couple of men to help him lay the keel of the vessel, put in the masts and do the other heavy work. At first the work was pushed rapidly, but when the water commenced to recede Evans took things easily and did all the work himself, because he thought the water would not come again for a year. He has been disappointed every year since, but still thinks that Death valley will become a sea, and he is ready for it.

"I was well treated by Evans," said Mr. Traver in concluding. "He took me to his abode, which was a deep cave a few feet from the brig, with a delightful temperature. I staid with him two days and found him a well educated man and very interesting, but when I left him his last words were, 'When the water rises, I will be ready for it.' "---San Francisco Call.

Monuments to Women.

Hitherto in France Joan of Arc has been almost the only woman to mount upon a marble pedestal, but the privilege is being extended. At Vitres a statue is being raised to Mine, de Sevigne, and at Valenciennes a similar honor is in store for Mlle, Duchenois. Apropos of these facts a French writer observes, "Womaa being, even in marble, so much more decorative than ourselves, one can only rejoice over the advent of feminine statues.

DIVORCES IN ENGLAND.

A Parliamentary Report Showing Some Interesting lacts Just Out.

It is pretty well understood in this country that the people of England don't go in much for divorces and judicial separations between man and wife, but just how small the number or such suits is perhaps is not known here. The house of commons has recently had a report made showing the doings of the English divorce court and the number and character of the cases tried there.

In six years 2,200 suits for divorce were tried. About 1,300 of these suits were instituted by the husbands, and only about 900 by the wives. A wife has to prove cruelty as well as other offenses in order to get a divorce. The women were ahead in the number of suits instituted for judicial separation. They began in six years 181 such suits, while only 48 were begun by the men. In 121 cases collusion was suspected, and the queen's proctor intervened, and 118 of these cases were thrown out of court. Few of the other cases failed. Our own statistics regarding marriages and divorce are just tabulated. With all the facilities for getting rid of husband or wife in divorce made easy courts, there have been found in the whole country only one-fifth of I per cent of the persons who have been married who have also been divorced. One person in 500 means one couple in 1,000 that get divere, d. There are 71,895 divorced women in the United States. There are not so many divorced men by a great many; but, then, divorced men and widowers are very upt to marry, and the figures prove that they probably do, for there are not so many widowers in the country as widows. -- New York Times.

Senator Murphy Swears Off.

Senator Murphy, who has been an inveterate smoker for many years, has 'sworn off" for awhile and has not lighted a eigar for several days. During the protracted sessions of the senate last fall, when the silver repeal bill was under consideration, Mr. Murphy smoked as many as 37 cigars in one day. This of course was above the average, but the number consumed by him daily was very large, as he often smoked five or six in rapid succession. A short time ago Senator Vest related in the cloakroom his experience with tobacco, which came near endangering his life, and recognizing some of Mr Vest's symptoms as similar to his own Mr. Murphy decided to call a halt. Now he only fordles a cigar; he does not smoke it.-Washington Correspondent.

The gneumogastine nerve, as shown hers, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. To Find Out That Black Snakes Are Fond of Wildcats. "If it hadn't been that there was a bounty of $2 a head on wildcats, then," said Unde Joe Vondersmith of York county, Pa, "it wouldn't have cost me a cent to learn that black snakes were fond of wildcars. As it was, it cost me $20. But Is pose the knowledge I got was worth the price.

"I used to peddle through the lower countres and down through Maryland. Those are great districts for snakes, especially black snakes and copperheads. It's fun to see folks doing their haying down through there, especially when they're loading it after it is cut and cured. A man will take up a forkful of dried grass, but ne won't pitch it on the wagon right away. He gives it three or four peculiar shakes to rattle the snakes out of it. If four or five copperheads don't tumble out. the man ain't satisfied and gives the hay another shake. It's worth going a long journey to see 'em load hay down there.

"They never speak about big black snakes in that country. There's no use of it, because there ain't any little black snakes. At least you never see one unless you call one nine feet long a little They don't run much finer than that. If one is killed smaller than that, it is toted around as a curiosity. It was in that stretch of territory that I learned to talk intelligently about the partiality of black snakes for wildcats. I was driving along one day through a scrubby piece of woods near the York county border, and hearing a peculiar noise at the side of the road I got out of my wagon to investigate. In a hollow stump I found nine wildcat kittens almost as hig as full grown house cats.

"...Ha! ha!' I says. 'Here's $18 for me, sure enough!"

While I was busy appropriating the scrambling and scratching young cats out of the woods came the mother of the litter and made right for me. I put two or three pistel balls into her, and that was all there was of the fight.
"Have to call it $20 now,' I says, and I rumbled the old cat's carcass into the wagon and put the nine kittens in by her. They snuggled down as meek as mice, and I started on feeling good.

"I had gone a mile or so when I happened to look back along the road and saw a big black streak coming toward me like a hurricane. I knew what it was in a second. It was one of the famous black snakes of that district. I put whip to my horse, thinking I might get away from my pursuer, but I didn't know the quali ties of those snakes. This one closed up the space between us so fast that he was almost at the hind wheels of my wagon before my horse had run five rods. I thought, of course, that the snake wanted me, and I quickly turned over in my mind what was best to be done to save myself. Having often read of travelers pursued by wolves tossing dogs and other things from their sleds as sops to the wolves, thus gaining time and distance, a happy thought struck me, and I grabbed a wildcat kitten and tossed it out to this snake to see how it would work. It worked first rate. The snake stopped. I whipped up my horse. Looking back, I saw the snake getting ready to envelop the kitten, and I thought I was saved. But just then out of the woods at one side of the read whizzed another black snake, as big as the first and went to climbing right up into the wagon. I grabbed another kitten and chucked it out and had to groan a little, for it was another $2 contribution to snakes. "Then away I went again, hoping to save the rest of my prize money. By and by I looked back to see how the land lay. It wasn't laying at all. It was all torn up by four more immense black snakes, which were putting in their best licks to catch me, not more than 100 yards in the rear. I throw another kitten out, supposing the four snakes would stop and have a squabble for it. But they didn't. One got it, and the other three came right on. And more snakes came out of the woods and joined in the chase. I saw it was no use, and so I stood up, my horse going at full jump, and fed those snakes wildcat kittens until the whole nine were gone and I was $18 out.

"I was pretty near out of the woods by this time. I could see the clearings right

" I'll save the old dead cat, by gum!' says, and clean up $2 out of this anyhow!"
But I was overhauled by a tremendous big black snake before I got to the end of the woods, and I knew by the humps on him that he had at least two of the kittens inside of himself already. I had to give up the old cat and went out of those woods into the clearing a-humming. I looked back and saw the whole caboodle of snakes having a grand old rough and tumble over the body of the mother wildcat, but I didn't stay to see how it came out. So I found out by personal observation that black snakes are fond of wildcats but it cost me §20. "—New York Sun.

Natural Mistake.

One of the oddest experiences that I ever had with my stammering, says a man who has an incurable impediment in his speech, happened in the shop of an apotheeary in London.

As I was suffering from a stomach trouble, I went into the apothecary's to get a little ipecac.

"I want some ip-ip-ip-ip" — I stammered, unable to get out the rest. "Some what?" he asked.

"Ip-ip ip"—

Ehlef Thorpe and the Patrol Wagon-Petition for Widening North Street-Wants $100 Damages-The Commission on the New Street-Bids for Lighting Not Opened-A Bicycle Ordinance-The Erie to Care for Its Surzace Water.

He said he had taken it upon himself to direct the company not to answer ambulance calls, and had notified the newspapers of such action. The company had never refused before, and if the facts had been stated to the driver he would have gone in this instance. He wanted to know who should have authority to give

INFANTS ARE STARVED.

Bables Die from Want of Proper Food -Parents' Neglect Keeps Up the Fearful Infant Beath Rate in July-Use

Parents do not understand how completely the lives of their babies are in their own hands these hot days.

Starving the ba-

At the first indication of faulty nourishment, indigestion or diarrhoes, the prudent mother will look | will have to be made. at baby's diet. If she is trying to nurse baby herself through the hot summer, she will make sure that her | Walden, were married at Wallkill, milk is capable of fully nourishing the last Sunday. little one. But if she finds that baby is not thriving, lactated food should be given either as an additional nutriment or for a complete diet.

No less an authority than Dr. Guernsey, the senior editor of the New York Medical Times, says that he uses lactated food with children. He says it is pleasant to taste and easily digested and assimilated. The famous Dr. Agnew, as is well known among physicians, was one of the first to publicly recommend the food. Dr. J. Lewis Smith, perhaps the greatest authority in the country on the diseases of children, professor in Bellevue Hospital college, New York, also commends its use. There are hundreds of physicians in New England, says the Boston Journal, who prescribe lactated food invariably as the nearest approach to healthy mother's milk, and as a rich baby food that builds up the strength and bodies of young children and inval-Lactated food is an ideal infant nutriment. Babies like it. They grow fat and ruddy when fed on it as an exclusive diet. It makes the impoverished blood of puny children grow rich and capable of making growing bone and flesh. All fear of cholera infantum may be dismissed after baby is put on a diet of lactated food: for the essential elements of this dread complaint-impurity and lack or nourishing qualities in the foodare absolutely removed. Mothers may sleep peacefully without fear of being awakened by a feverish cry by night that may tell of some grave intestinal disorder.

Babies fed on lactated food gain steadily in weight and escape summer aickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soutar, who live on Campbell street, Sandusky, Ohio, owe their happiness to lactated food. They write:

"When our baby, Ruth, was sick there was nothing that would stay on it worked wonders. She is now a large, healthy child. He age is one year and four menths. We are convinced that if it had not been for the timely use of lactated food our baby would have died. We now have anvoted to pay Engineer Smith $6 per other little one that we are nursing on lactated food, we have such laith in it, and we also recommend it to all our friends."

TALKING OF TIPPING.

A New York Waiter on Recent Troubles and the Future of His Class.

"Every now and then there is an outcry against tipping," said a head waiter in a Broadway resort, "and it has been said that waiters-some of them-are enabled to buy real estate from the yieldings of the system. This might have been years ago, when waiters thoroughly educated to their business were comparatively scarce, but it is a fallacy

now. "Good waiters here are not as numerous as they are in Paris, but their numbers are enough to make them feel the evils of tipping. Last year's general strike in the big hotels and fashionable cafes was caused primarily by tipping, for this is taken into consideration when employers fix the rate of wages. The men are reasonably easy now, but it is only a matter of time when New York must become like Paris."

In the French capital not long ago there were 40,000 idle waiters, and it was contended that employers took advantage of this to cut down the earnings of their men. And here is where the pernicious tip shows its influence again. The men because of it are practically paid no fixed wages, but themselves pay to their employers so much in proportion to the business they do.

In the great cafes in the boulevards waiters have to pay to the cashier the full selling price of whatever they serve, plus 5 per cent. In some cases the rate is advanced. The percentage must come from tips. No one gives less than about 2 cents, however small the purchase.

In this city a dime is the minimum, though several waiters in "swell" resorts have been known to turn from it in disdain. Just think of giving one of these men 2 cents!

"It would surprise you," continued the head waiter, "to know that it is principally the men who ask for the most expensive orders and need the most tip the waiter by giving him a bad eigar G. N. PREDMORE & SON. 5 West Main St., or-nothing. "-New York Herald.

Paris to Become a Scaport.

The project of "converting Paris into a scaporr," to borrow the expression current here, or, in other words, of enabling ships to come up from Havre and Rouen to this metropolis through the utilization of the Seine and the construction of a canal at various points where that river widens considerably, has made great progress of late. The question is now being examined by a special committee, and it is thought that the bill may be voted by parliament at no distant date, thus admitting of the completion of the work in time for the opening of the great exhibition of the year 1900. One of the principal advocates of the enterprise says that the engineers who look after the navigation of the Seine are of opinion that no insurmountable difficulty will be encountered. If the plan one day becomes an accomplished fact, vessels up to 4,000 tons burden will be able to make their way to Paris from the sea.-London Telegraph.
